

Treatment Resistant Depression Study

If you've tried one or more antidepressant medications and still feel depressed, you may have treatment resistant depression.

Dr. Susan Kornstein of the VCU Mood Disorders Institute is now conducting a study of an investigational drug for treatment resistant depression.

If you're between the ages of 18 and 65 and medically stable, you may qualify to participate. Research care is provided at our off-campus location.

For more information, please contact VCU Mood Disorders Institute at (804) 828-5639.